Dec. 26, 1928.

Mr. J. J. Collier,
Box 668,
Corpus Christi, Texas.

Dear Jim:

I have already acknowledged receipt of the grape fruit both to you and your brother J. B. We had some of them for breakfast yesterday and they were delightful.

I gave a couple of the grape fruit to the girls here in the office and they were so much pleased with them they said if you were not married they would send you a card, but since you and your brother are both married they thought they had best remain quiet and simply remember that they enjoyed the grape fruit very much. Durward and his wife likewise enjoyed same very much. They were over here from Athens, Georgia, spending the holidays. Durward went back last night. He is President of this big cotton mill, Southern Manufacturing Company, which employs about 700 people.

I would be delighted to get you located in Georgia, Atlanta say, as that is the only real town in the Southeast. Sometime this spring I think I will take it up with the Atlanta people and see what can be done. I, of course, myself know nothing about the funeral business and would not be prepared to advise you.

With my usual kind regards, I beg to remain

Yours most cordially,

JCC:S
